

WIGGLY

Carvers:

Al Becker, Wayne Miles, Russell Musgrave, Sonny Schiller, Keith Hargrove, and James Barker
Missouri and Illinois Sponsor: Adworkshop

Wiggly travels around the carousel with his own little mouse friend, who travels around with his own block of Swiss cheese!

Wiggly the Salamander: All of the carousel animals were named by local school children. That's why we have a salamander named Wiggly! We also have a Doe named John for the same reason!

SALAMANDER

Salamanders are classified as Amphibians and live in or near water. They are closely related to frogs despite how different they look. Baby salamanders are born with gills and fins that shrink as they grow lungs and legs, changing from a water animal into a land animal. If you see a salamander, look but don't touch. Their skin is very sensitive. They are nocturnal creatures and very shy.

OLIVER

Carvers: Karen Loffler, Carl Borst, and Rich Kraft
Saranac Lake, NY
Sponsor: The Wild Center

Oliver! What a Sweetheart! He's the only animal that lets you ride on his belly and looks back at you so you can rub his nose. He loves that! Oliver is a wonderful choice for your little one's first carousel ride! Rarely does the carousel go around without someone on Oliver.

NORTH AMERICAN RIVER OTTER

The River Otter, a member of the Weasel family, is a common resident throughout The Adirondack Park. They are naturally curious and wildly energetic. Otters do not spend time building dens, preferring to occupy the deserted dens of other animals. This leaves the otter free to do what he loves most, PLAY!
